

To Whom it May Concern:

The new technology called Low Power FM, if expanded, will force off quality national and regional FM stations, such as K-LOVE, which I listen to on 88.1 FM in Omaha, NE.

K-LOVE serves me as a resident of my local community. The programming music and talk on K-LOVE is free of the gratuitous sex, violence, and vulgar language that is present or implied on most radio stations. The more a person hears talk or music about sex outside of marriage, violence, and vulgar language, the more people are likely to copy these habits glorified by most of the entertainment industry today. Having a station such as K-LOVE that is free of these poisons keeps society safer from criminal activity, sexually transmitted diseases, hatred, and other undesirables.

I hope and pray that Low Power FM does not take priority over current FM translator service. We need a shining moral example such as K-LOVE to partially protect us from the onslaught of moral failures prevalent in our society today. Thank you and God bless.
